What's the need?

Technology is the engine driving virtually all business today—to maintain a winning edge, you need to keep your technical skills up to date.

Recognized as a world leader in IT training, IBM offers a far-reaching, flexible portfolio of technical training and professional education services designed to support IT professionals in their need to acquire, maintain and optimize mission-critical IT skills.

Why IBM classes?

Our curriculum offerings address the skill gaps that result from increasingly complex, constantly evolving IT systems. IBM offers:

- Training in 26 different product areas, covering both our own and complementary technologies
- A curriculum that is reviewed and fine-tuned continuously to leverage improvement opportunities
- Educational offerings that keep pace with changing technology
- Training on older versions of popular applications
- Convenient class locations with thousands of classes held worldwide each year.

Why IBM training?

Choose IBM for your training needs, and you're choosing a training partner with an uncommon commitment to your success:

- Expert instructors with real-world experience—In U.S. post-class surveys, 93% of our students say they will come back to IBM for more training and 97% are extremely satisfied with their instructor
- Broad curriculum —An unparalleled inventory of in-depth technical and professional training solutions.
